James J. Walker Dies in New York; Funeral Thursday

Former New York Mayor
During Glittering
Prohibition Days;
Was 65

JAMES J. WALKER

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—James J. (Jimmy) Walker, mayor of New York City during the glittering days of the prohibition era, the Wall Street boom and night club palor, is dead at 65.

Death came painlessly last night to the debonair, slender, little man with the raptur wit, who had come to epitomize New York sophistication of the get-rich-quick years before the depression.

He never awakened from the coma into which he lapsed shortly after being taken to Doctors Hospital early Sunday suffering from a brain clot. The last rites of the Catholic Church were administered soon after his admittance to the hospital.

Funeral at Cathedral

Funeral services will be at St. Patrick's Cathedral Thursday morning. Friends said private burial services would be held at the Gate of Heaven Cemetery in Pleasantville.

Federal Court Order Fails to Stop Miners From Leaving Their Jobs; Lewis Faces Jail Sentence

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19 (AP)—More thousands of miners left the pits today in scattered work stoppages which began yesterday in the soft coal fields.

Approximately 58,000 men were reported out today in contrast with 38,000 yesterday.

The stoppages spread despite a federal court order issued in Washington against a strike.

The score of idle miners in the large producing states stood: Alabama 16,000; Illinois 17,000; Pennsylvania 10,000; West Virginia 10,200; Virginia 1,600; Kentucky 3,000; and Indiana 650.

Most of those who left their jobs this morning were in Alabama, where 16,000 of the state's 20,000 miners were idle, suspending 60 out of 84 Alabama mines. Yesterday only 3,000 stopped work in that state.

As in the case of idleness at pits in several other states, there was no formal reason given by the union or the operators in Alabama for the walkouts.

John L. Lewis, president of the A.F.L.-United Mine Workers, has notified the government that the union's contract expires Wednesday midnight.

Rent Control Law Will Be Extended 6 Months in 1948

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 19 (AP)—New York state's residential rent control law—operative only if federal ceilings are abandoned—will be extended halfway through 1948, probably with no "material changes," a legislative leader predicted today.

Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens said that the 1947 legislation probably would extend for a year also the commercial and business rent control law for New York city which expires along with the residential statute next June.

Stephens, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, also is chairman of the joint legislative committee on rent control.

Practically all urban areas of the state are under federal residential rent control. The present O.P.A. expires July 1, 1947, but most price ceilings already have been eliminated. Rent controls being one of the few still on the books.

Real estate and landlord groups have indicated they would seek modification of the New York residential rent law, which was actually operative for 25 days last July between the death of the original O.P.A. and approval of the new legislation providing continued federal price controls.

The New York law, when in effect, freezes residential rents at O.P.A. levels in all areas in which federal control existed. It allows the state rent commissioner to establish ceilings in other areas "to prevent exactions of unjust, unreasonable and oppressive rents" and to "forestall profiteering."

Makes Much of Fact
Governor Dewey, whose personal intervention helped push the measure through the 1946 legislature, made much of the fact in his recent re-election campaign that New York was the only state ready with residential rent control law when the original O.P.A. expired last June 30.

Stephens said in an interview that "there is no question the law will be extended for another year (to June 30, 1948) with no material changes probable at this particular time."

The Putnam county Republican said he had heard of several proposals to drop or change the law. He did not believe they would make much headway, he added.

A high administration official, who declined to be identified, said large real estate groups and "small landlords" were urging the administration to allow the law to lapse next June or to be modified to allow general increases in the cost of maintenance and improvements.

He said it was "reasonable to expect" that the statute would be continued for a year with no basic changes but foresaw some changes for purposes of "clarification."

Asks Continuance
Joseph D. McGoldrick, state rent control chief during the O.P.A. phase, is today recommending in his final report to Governor Dewey that state controls be continued when federal control ends finally.

He said that the experience of operating state control by a blanket adoption of O.P.A. regulations, as was done in July, caused him to believe that "in anticipation of the eventual return of rent control to the states" the legisla-

Two Killed, Two Hurt in This Car

Death struck twice when this car left the highway near the Samsonville post office at 3 o'clock this morning and crashed into a clump of trees. Those who lost their lives were Mrs. Charles Phillips, 41, of Hudson and James Kelder, 48, her brother, of 34 Franklin street. The injured were Mrs. Celia Kelder, 69, of Tabasco, mother of the two who lost their lives and Mrs. Zenia Davis, 46, of Samsonville, cousin of the deceased, who was the driver of the car. Sheriff's Office Tells of Conflicting Reports
by Survivors

The sheriff's office and state troopers are conducting an intensive investigation into details surrounding an automobile accident that claimed the lives of a brother and sister and caused slight injuries to the mother and cousin of the victims about 3 a. m. today near the Samsonville post office.

The dead are:
Mrs. Charles Phillips, 41, of Hudson, N. Y.

James Kelder, 48, of 34 Franklin street, Kingston, married and the father of two children.

Both were dead upon arrival at the Benedictine hospital. They were conveyed to the hospital in a private car.

The injured are Mrs. Celia Kelder, 69, of Tabasco, mother of the victims and Mrs. Zenia Davis, 46, of Samsonville, cousin of the deceased and driver of car.

County Trooper J. H. Davis said he would issue a certificate of accidental death.

The tragic accident which boosted the automobile fatality toll in Ulster county to eight in less than two months, occurred as Mrs. Davis was driving Mrs. Kelder to her home in Tabasco after a dinner party with another group of relatives.

Short Distance From Home
An ironic twist to the accident was the fact that it happened only a short distance from Mrs. Kelder's home.

Circumstances surrounding the accident have not been clearly established. Sheriff George C. Smith said today. Conflicting testimony by the two survivors shrouds the accident in mystery. Mrs. Zenia Davis, the driver, allegedly told investigators that she was forced off the road by the blinding headlights of an oncoming car. Mrs. Kelder is reported to have stated that she did not see any oncoming vehicle.

Wedged Between Trees
The Davis machine left the road on a straight stretch of highway near the Samsonville postoffice and was wedged between two trees less than 10 feet from the macadam road. The car, a 1941 Chevrolet sedan was almost demolished.

According to the official reconstruction of the accident, the two victims were seated on the right side of the car, one in front and the other in the back seat. Both were thrown clear of the car.

Mrs. Davis, the driver and least injured of the group, walked from the scene of the accident the short distance to Mrs. Kelder's home to summon assistance.

Cecil Krum and Bradford Kelder, cousins of the deceased, and Henry Johnson of Samsonville, went to the scene. They said they detected signs of life in both Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Kelder and rushed them to the Benedictine Hospital in a private car. The hospital authorities said both were dead on arrival.

Mrs. Davis Is Released
Mrs. Kelder, who suffered slight injuries, was released today.

It's 15 at Albany

Temperatures, However,
Are Rising Throughout
New York State

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 19 (AP)—The mercury dropped to 15 above zero at Albany this morning, coldest local reading of the season, as sub-freezing temperatures were reported generally.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported, however, that temperatures were rising and that it would not be so cold tonight.

Other sub-freezing readings (6.3) at Fort Plain, 19; Bantam, 19; Lodi, 21; Ulster and Rome, 27; Ticonderoga, 26; and Saratoga, 27.

Kingston and Buffalo recorded lows of 32. At New York City (La Guardia Field) it was 38.

Prices on Cattle Are Only Slightly Under Early Peaks

Maximums Went Off
Livestock Five Weeks
Ago; Receipts,
Supplies Good

Chicago, Nov. 19 (AP)—Prices which farmers received for livestock today, at the start of the sixth week of decontrolled markets, were only slightly under peaks established immediately after the war.

Other results of free trading include more meat, a corn-beef price relationship favorable for expanding the hog population, record numbers of cattle moving into mid-western feed lots and increased cold storage meat holdings.

Five weeks ago today maximums went off livestock and meat, and excluding Sundays, the nation has had 30 days of free trading since the war.

A high of $27 paid for live cattle yesterday in Chicago equaled the best price on record for steers, top on live hogs was $21.75 against a peak of $27.50 shortly after decontrol.

These prices were well above former O.P.A. ceilings of $20.25 on cattle and $16.25 on hogs. In addition there was a subsidy of 50 cents on hogs.

Livestock receipts and meat supplies are much larger than in the period before decontrol. Cattle slaughter under federal inspection in October was up 27 per cent over September and hog slaughter 61 per cent. November receipts also are higher than in the control period.

Fagan Is Denied Police Position on Basis of Residence

War Veteran Who Stood
First on List Filing of Department

An unusual situation has arisen in regard to the appointment of police officers from the recent civil service list. The man who because of his being a disabled veteran, stood first on the list was not included in the appointments because of an apparent discrepancy in his residence qualifications.

Francis Fagan, of 150 Fair street, a disabled war veteran was first on the list because of his disability, but was not appointed since he had not been a resident of Kingston for two years, a requirement which is demanded by the rules of the Police Department, but which he was not familiar with when he took the civil service examination.

At the time of the examination the civil service rules permitted a man who had been a resident of the city for a year to participate in the examination. Passing, with his disability rights, as first on the list, the Board of Police Commissioners was unable to appoint him to the job because the rules of the Police Department required a year's residence before an appointment may be made.

Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig said the situation had been called to his attention when he was asked for an opinion on the matter. Mr. Ewig said the legal opinion was sought without the name of the applicant being mentioned to him but he was asked to give a legal opinion on whether the civil service requirement of a year's residence which is required to make a man eligible to take the civil examination or the Police Department rule which required a year's residence before an appointment could be made, prevailed.

Mr. Ewig stated that he had given his opinion that the same thing that while the civil service rule does not refer to physical requirements of any person taking the examination for police officers, the physical requirements as prescribed by the Police Department rules must be met before an appointment can be made. Mr. Ewig pointed out that

Delinquency Cases Increase, Cashin's Report Indicates

There was an increase in the number of delinquency cases handled in Children's Court during the past year, according to the annual report of Judge John M. Cashin, judge of the Children's Court of Ulster county. This was both in formal and informal cases and a slight increase in physically handicapped cases was also recorded as well as in the number of adult cases. There was a very substantial decrease in the number of neglect cases.

In his annual report to the Board of Supervisors, Judge Cashin reported that from November 1, 1944 to November 1, 1945, the court disposed of 197 formal cases and 25 informal cases. A formal case is one in which a petition is filed and the case scheduled for a hearing and determination by the court. An informal case is one that is adjusted without the filing of a petition.

Last year 70 formal and 10 informal cases were disposed of and this year that number had increased to 93 formal and 23 informal delinquency cases. Neglect cases decreased from 41 last year to 11 this year. Physically handicapped cases increased this year by four. As to adult cases, last year 42 adult cases were disposed of and this year 58 formal and one informal adult cases were concluded.

In the delinquency cases, most of the children adjudicated to be delinquent were placed on probation to the Chief Probation Officer. Only six were committed to institutions. In the neglect cases, both of the children adjudicated to be neglected were committed to the custody of a public department or officer for placement.

Most of the adult cases were "support proceedings" in which petitions were filed by wives or other interested parties charging a husband or father with not providing support for his wife and minor children. In most cases the respondent was directed to contribute to the support and maintenance of his family. Thirteen men were brought before the court for failure to comply with the order of the court and were either fined, committed to jail or placed on probation.

There was one order for adoption signed and consent to marry was granted to two girls under the age of 16 but over the age of 14.

Acknowledges Assistance
In his report Judge Cashin acknowledges the assistance and cooperation rendered by the Children's Workers of both the City and County Departments of Public Welfare, the Probation Officer, Sheriff and his staff, State Police, City Police and the various police departments throughout the county.

Reasons for delinquency were: Acts of carelessness or mischief, 37 boys and one girl; Burglary or unlawful entry, 15 boys and one girl; Other stealing, fifteen boys; Six offenses, five boys and two girls; Uncontrollable, two boys and four girls; Truancy, two boys and three girls; Running away, three boys and one girl; Assault, one boy; Violation of Conservation Law, one boy.

The neglect cases were as follows: Without adequate physical care, one boy and five girls; Under improper guardianship, two boys and three girls.

Physically handicapped children: In need of physical care, 11 boys and nine girls. In need of education, six boys and six girls.

In the delinquency cases 44 boys and three girls were placed on probation to the Probation Officer and three boys and two girls were sent to state institutions for delinquent children. One was sent to a private institution. Four delinquent boys and one neglected and one neglected girl were committed to a Public Department Officer. Dismissed after a warning were 33 delinquent boys and three girls and two neglected boys and seven neglected girls.

Of the 32 physically handicapped children five boys and four girls were sent to private institutions, three boys and two girls to state institutions and one girl was care d for in a city institution. Nine boys and eight girls were given care or training outside of institutions.

In the adult cases 35 men were charged with inadequate support of dependents, nine children born out of wedlock, thirteen cases were where there was failure to comply with an order of the court. The only violation by a woman was that of violation of the Education Law.

In the disposition of the adult cases three men were committed, 35 were ordered to contribute to maintenance of the family, six were fined, five were placed on probation and eight men and one woman had their cases dismissed. One man had his case reheard without a new petition and was placed on probation.

In the neglect cases which were adjusted without a petition were: Delinquency, 20 boys and three girls; neglect, one girl. Inadequate support of dependents, one man.

Janice Pollock Prefers Her Home

'Mrs. America' Definitely Gives Up Honors

Columbus, O., Nov. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Janice Pollock today preferred the familiar glimmer of the kitchen range to the tinselled glamor of the "Mrs. America of 1946" title bestowed upon her last week.

The pretty 24-year-old housewife and mother of four won the title in a contest at Jackson, Miss., last Wednesday, but definitely gave up the honor and an accompanying $2,500 prize yesterday because acceptance would have required a 20 weeks' tour of the country.

Her place as "Mrs. America" was taken by Mrs. Freda Acker of Anderson, S. C., who had finished second.

"It was far more important to stay here and be a mother to the children than any amount of glory or money from the contest," Mrs. Pollock said.

Her husband, Mark Pollock, said his wife telephoned that message to Bert Tiltcomb, contest manager at Jackson.

Tiltcomb announced last night that Mrs. Acker, officially crowned and given the title's benefits.

Previously, Mrs. Acker, who has one child, told reporters she would gladly accept the title.

Permanent Appointments For Disabled Veterans

Opportunities for qualified disabled veterans to receive permanent appointment in the Federal Civil Service are on the increase as a result of the "reopening" right granted by the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944.

Under that act, disabled veterans, as well as widows of veterans and wives of veterans who themselves are unable to work because of service-connected disability, may be examined at any time for any position to which a permanent appointment has been made within the preceding three years. The Federal Civil Service Commission's program for announcement of examinations for probationary appointment is progressing steadily and each new examination announced widens the range of the positions which may be reopened. Persons who qualify in reopened examinations are considered not only for filling vacancies but also for replacement of temporary and war service employees who do not have permanent civil service status.

Full information regarding the specific positions which may be reopened is available at the Civil Service Regional Office in the Federal Building, Christopher street in New York city, and at first- and second-class post offices in New York and New Jersey.

Navy Suspends Quota System on Enlistments

The U. S. Navy recruiting station at Poughkeepsie today announced that it had suspended its quota system on enlistments and is now accepting an unlimited number of recruits. Under this new order, enlistments in general service billets will be affected immediately.

There are also opening for 7,900 men to be trained as electronic technicians, high school graduates or the equivalent, who pass the qualifying examination (Geddy Test) and who desire this training, will be sent to the Electronic Technician's School for a course of expert training in this field.

A Navy spokesman stated that when the service started to cut its strength to the projected peacetime size an enlistment quota was set for each recruiting district. However, in recent weeks the Navy has discovered that the rate of attrition—loss of strength through expiration of enlistments, demobilization of drafted personnel and discharges for illness and various other reasons—was greater than previously estimated.

In view of the foregoing the Navy is again operating under unrestricted quotas until the recruiting rate has reached a level where the peacetime strength can be maintained without difficulty, at which time a quota system will be reestablished.

Electrical Workers Act On Temporary Job Stand

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—A strike committee of 30 "with full authority" to make any necessary decisions necessary was set up last night by a unanimous vote of more than 100 members of Local 3, A. F. L. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who are conductors and maintainers, employed by the Consolidated Edison Company.

John F. O'Donnell, union counsel, who made the announcement, said the action was taken at a closed meeting.

The members of the union are employees of the Consolidated Edison Company and the Edison Company, a subsidiary of the Consolidated Edison Company.

The union said the employees have been employed for several weeks on temporary jobs, but that when the permanent workers who were laid off last week returned they would be rehired.

A company spokesman said the temporary workers were hired to replace the permanent workers who were laid off last week.

The company said it was not in a position to rehired the permanent workers until the temporary workers had been laid off.

Cleveland Hotel Fire Takes Life of Woman; 11 Hurt

Cleveland, Nov. 19 (AP)—Fire that flashed through the 72-room, residential Hotel Belden on Cleveland's East Side left one woman dead today, 11 others injured, five of them seriously, and nearly 80 occupants temporarily homeless.

Assistant Fire Chief James Nimmo estimated damage at $300,000 and said the blaze apparently had a good start before it was reported.

Origin was undetermined, but firemen expressed the opinion it started either from the first floor incinerator of the four-story brick structure or the basement boiler.

While most of the occupants were reading, listening to their radios or otherwise occupied last night, flames swept up the stairwell, cutting off that means of escape to many top floor residents.

Two children were hurled from second and third floor windows into the arms of neighbors in the street. Some escaped by tying bed sheets together and letting themselves down from their windows.

Ladders were brought hurriedly from homes nearby, and other occupants were brought down them.

The dead woman was identified from a metal tag in her purse as Mrs. Freda C. Shanks, a middle-aged widow.

DeGraff Tells Northeast Farmers Research Needed

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 19 (AP)—Farmers in the northeast must adopt a comprehensive research program, covering both marketing and production, in order to meet increasing competition, delegates to the New York State Farm Bureau Federation's 31st annual meeting were told today.

Predicting that "farming will become increasingly competitive," Dr. Herrell DeGraff, professor of land economics at the State College of Agriculture, Cornell University, added in his prepared speech that such a research program would enable northeastern farmers to operate "with ever-increasing efficiency."

Hawley of Batavia, Federation president, announced formation of a joint health and safety committee for the Farm Bureau Federation, the State Federation of Home Bureaus and the State 4-H Extension Federation. Hawley said the committee had been made permanent and would "study this winter so that the rural people of New York state will have a better health program."

Rhodell Stanton of Greenfield, president of the 4-H Federation, heads the new committee.

Associate Secretary C. K. Bullock reported that the Farm Bureau Federation gained 3,000 members during the past year to boost total membership to 79,400.

Cooperation of farmers in "national efforts for peace, for outlawing atomic warfare and for international controls" was urged at the annual dinner of the three organizations last night by Dr. Mark Graubard of the University of Maryland Extension Service. Graubard represented the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. L. R. Simons, director of extension of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Cornell received a national 4-H plaque for distinguished service. It was the first such plaque to be awarded in New York state.

DeGraff told the delegates today that farm production in the northeast had "increased over 40 percent" since the "turn of the century."

"Crop yields on the acres have increased in farming have increased two-thirds, milk production per cow has climbed 10 percent and egg production per hen is up 70 percent," he continued.

"Never before in its history has the northeastern region raised so much farm produce as it has in recent years."

"Future trends," he added, "will tend to be the same as those of the past."

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

It's an estimated 15 miles of kidney tubes that are overworked. They must remove excess acids and waste from the blood. If they fail, the body is in trouble. The kidneys are the body's natural waste disposal system. They filter out the waste from the blood and excrete it in the form of urine. If the kidneys are not working properly, the waste will build up in the blood, causing various symptoms such as fatigue, weakness, and loss of appetite. It is important to keep the kidneys healthy by drinking plenty of water and eating a balanced diet.

State Will Use Scientific Equipment in Road Program

Albany, Nov. 19.—More new modern scientific equipment will be used by New York state in its postwar highway construction program. The work of the State Department of Public Works will be facilitated by acquisition of two units of the most modern scientific apparatus for use in its subsurface investigations of highway and building location. It was announced today, by Superintendent Charles H. Sells, bid proposals for furnishing a Shepard type portable Seismograph and a Gish-Rooney portable Electrical Resistivity Apparatus, for use by the Soils Bureau, will be received by the Division of Standards and Purchase, 103 Washington avenue, Albany, at 11 a. m., Thursday, December 5, 1946. The estimated cost of the equipment is $5,700.

The Seismograph and the Resistivity equipment will be used to augment the core drilling and soil sampling methods of physical analysis now in use, serving to extend and to speed up the work of determining subsurface conditions upon which the design of structures and highways is determined. When used in connection with conventional drilling methods, the new equipment will, generally, speed up the work of exploring foundation conditions that may be encountered by greatly reducing the number of holes that would be required to provide complete information. This is particularly important where large areas or long strips must be explored in connection with institutional layouts or highway construction.

Method Is Shown

Although the physical analysis of sub-surface samples of soils and rock obtained by core drilling yield more precise results, the method is relatively slow and, naturally, costly. The new apparatus will permit making numerous checks in the area being studied which, when integrated with the information obtained by core drilling, will greatly reduce the number of holes that must be made, resulting in a considerable saving of time and money.

The Seismograph consists of a portable control unit, detonator and three detectors. In use, the detonator and detectors are set up, in line, at measured distances and connected to the control unit. A small explosive charge is set off in the detonator and, at the same instant, a tuning fork is struck in the control unit. An image of the sound waves coming from the tuning fork is projected on a strip of motion picture film to mark a uniform series of time intervals of one-thousandth of a second. The initial sound wave from the explosion travels down through the soil to any hard strata that may underlie it, is carried horizontally over the hard strata and bounces upward to actuate sensitive recording instruments in the detectors. These impulses are carried to the control unit from the detectors, by electrical impulse, where they are recorded upon the moving film strip as a wavy line. The film strip is immediately developed and passed out of the control unit so that the relationship of the three sound tracks can be read against the constant time interval pattern set up by the tuning fork. Readings are recorded and the apparatus may be moved on to another spot for another shot. The readings are interpreted and plotted on a map which reveals the desired information to the geophysicist and engineer. The seismograph will yield satisfactory results up to depths of nearly 200 feet and through several intervening strata of different materials. It is particularly useful in locating and charting rock and other hard formations.

Will Chart Locations

The Electrical Resistivity Apparatus will be used principally to chart the locations, type and depth of clays, silts and gravel. It, too, will give good results to nearly 200 feet. With this equipment, the known variable electrical conductivity of different soil materials is utilized to chart underground conditions by interpretation changes between electrode rods driven in the surface at fixed distances apart. In use, four rods are driven a short distance into the ground, on a straight line. An electrical current is applied to the outer rods and readings made of the drop in amperes between the outer and inner electrode rods. Readings are made directly from the control unit and recorded. Each test is made with a different distance between electrodes. The equipment is readily portable and readings can be made quickly.

Will Make Further Use

A further use will be made of the equipment being sought by the Bureau of Soils. There are areas in the state in which it is difficult to obtain suitable sand and gravel for concrete highways and structures. With the new apparatus the Bureau's geologists can prospect for buried deposits of the desired materials from the surface, plot their extent and depth. By these methods, which are proven to be reliable it is expected that sources of satisfactory concrete aggregates will be located that will assure uniformly good concrete throughout the state and result in a considerable saving in the cost of getting good materials to the hundreds of projects that are being progressed in the Department's $840,000,000 Postwar Construction Program.

Dr. Gilson Is Named

Gilson will supervise elementary and secondary school instruction.

Barnhart Heads Dairy Committee

Busy Program Is planned on Solving Problems

Vernon A. Barnhart of Stone Ridge was re-elected chairman of the Farm Bureau dairy committee at the annual meeting of community representatives on this important committee. Albert Kurdt, county agricultural agent, was re-elected secretary.

The 1947 Farm Bureau dairy program was planned by the committee. The chief problems which they directed the Farm Bureau to help farmers solve are: Reduction of labor costs; reduction of feed costs; improvement of herds through breeding; production of feed crops and making woodlots more productive. A new feature will be a county-wide tour early in the spring to farms where some of the best known labor saving devices are being used. Several demonstrations were planned to find the best crops to produce for pasturage, both permanent and emergency pastures. It was also voted to assist the Ulster County Artificial Breeding Association and the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Both of these groups have made much progress during the past year.

Campaign to Control Rabies in Foxes Started

A special rabies control crew, consisting of a supervisor and nine other trappers, will conduct a campaign to control rabies in foxes by creating a "zone of fox security" around south-central New York counties, where an epidemic of canine and bovine rabies is prevalent. The campaign has been launched by the Conservation Department, with the Departments of Health and of Agriculture and Markets cooperating, according to Conservation Commissioner Perry M. Duryea.

A barrier zone will be created around these counties. If any rabid foxes cross this zone and start a new center of infection, other wildlife damage control units of the Department's Bureau of Game will be assigned to such areas, Mr. Duryea said.

"Canine rabies is still prevalent in the south-central counties, endangering humans and causing considerable loss among livestock," Commissioner Duryea pointed out. "We are concentrating on the fox while the Department of Health is conducting an inoculation campaign against rabies in dogs. Thus the two agencies hope to stop the spread of the disease and eventually wipe it out."

Fortune Editor Will Be Speaker

Haystead Will Discuss
Farms at Annual Bureaus' Dinner

Ladd Haystead, farm editor for Fortune Magazine and one of America's foremost authorities on agricultural matters, will address the annual banquet of the Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Associations on Friday, November 22, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. Haystead, author of seven volumes on farm life and numerous feature articles for Fortune, owns two properties at Wallkill, Ulster county and divides his time between Wallkill and a home in New Mexico.

Fortune's former expert was born on the British Columbia-Washington border. In childhood he alternated between a frontier farm and a print shop and has kept that dual working arrangement ever since.

He was educated in Ontario and the Pacific coast states, matriculating at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Mr. Haystead's first professional work was converting an Arizona cotton ranch into a livestock operation. Since then he has managed, been a consultant or owned farms in 15 states, and has studied farm conditions in all 48 states as a farm journalist. To this list he added 30 foreign countries, poking into such things as arrowroot culture in the West Indies, soil conservation and the lack of it in Australia, fertilizing practices in France, etc.

Mr. Haystead joined Fortune's staff after his discharge from service in 1943. He travels about 30,000 miles a year for Fortune studying new farm practices and trends. His reports on what is new in agriculture are also of direct use on the farms so many Fortune readers own and operate. Haystead has contributed to dozens of publications, including the Farm Journal, Country Gentleman, and Successful Farming. The farm column in Fortune is reprinted frequently in the farm press of the nation and is used by speakers to farm audiences.

The Fortune expert is a member of a long list of farm organizations, including the American Society of Agriculture Engineers, American Society of Farm Managers, American Association of Agricultural Editors, and is the only member of the Farm Club of New York.

National Retail Dry Goods Convention

New York, Nov. 19.—The National Retail Dry Goods Association extended invitations today to its members throughout the United States, Latin America and Europe to attend its annual convention, January 13 to 17 in New York. Lew Hahn, general manager, announced that the theme of the convention would be "Dynamic Distribution in a Free Economy."

More than 5,000 retailers are expected to attend the sessions, which will be held in the Hotel Pennsylvania. Activities will begin with breakfast meetings and continue through morning, afternoon and evening programs.

Manufacturers will exhibit hundreds of samples and models of new-developed goods for the benefit of merchants seeking new products for the consuming public. "Now that the United States has returned to a free economy," said Benjamin H. Namm, president of the Association, "the responsibility of retailers to serve as the purchasing agents of the public is increasingly evident. Retailers throughout the nation are doing their best to obtain better quality goods and to keep prices down."

"This convention will serve as the first opportunity since the abolition of price controls for general conferences among merchants. It will permit a free exchange of opinion among us as to how we can best serve the customers' market which now is replacing the sellers' market of the last five years."

In addition to the general Association meetings, special programs will be held by the Store Management, Merchandising & Sales Promotion groups. Smaller Stores Division, Personnel Division and other bodies of the Association.

Kings Cage 16 of 25

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—If the Professional Basketball Association of America can click the way its New York entry, The Knickerbockers, have with their set shot, the newly organized circuit's success is virtually assured. The Knicks attempted 25 long set shots last night and connected with 16 for a phenomenal 64 percent. These long, accurate heaves enabled them to defeat the Detroit Falcons 61-57 in the second Madison Square Garden encounter before 10,126 fans.

Peters, another top-flight star, was the sparkplug of the 1945-46 Baltimore Bullets, American Basketball League champs. This team represented the East in the World's Professional Basketball Tournament held in the Chicago Stadium last March. Peters also is a newly made member of the New York Police Force, and while able to play with a New York City team, he cannot make an out-of-town contest which would leave the Baltimore club to give him his release this season.

The Chiefs, meanwhile, served notice on all comers last Saturday that they'll be tough. They won a fast passing game, 74-60, with a 20-point lead in the fourth quarter.

Commenting on the game, the Chiefs' coach, Coach Conneely, said: "The Chiefs' scoring jersey, which is a red and white, is a new idea. It's a release this season."

200 Expected to Attend Big K. A. A. Dinner on Wednesday

Talent Hunt Winners, Mark Huling's Seal, Added to Program at The Barn

A good response to ticket sales for the Kingston Athletic Association testimonial dinner to members of the sports press and radio indicates a turnout of about 200 at The Barn Wednesday evening. President Thomas M. Davitt announced today when talking to the program will start at 6:15 o'clock.

"Our committee members are reporting an unusual amount of interest in this program," Davitt asserted today when talking to a Freeman scribe "and it looks as though there's going to be a capacity crowd on hand for the celebration."

Entertainment Added

In addition to the main speaker, who will be Tommy Lombardo, captain and quarterback of Army's great football team of 1944, the committee in charge of arrangements for Wednesday's show has secured the services of Lee Barnett and Johnny Brophy, recent winners of the talent hunt show conducted in Kingston.

Also, the committee announces that Mark Huling's famous seal, Sharkey, will be brought over to The Barn stage floor for Wednesday's get-together. It all adds for a fine show," Davitt reported today.

The K.A.A.-sponsored banquet for the members of the press and radio is the first of its kind in this city and it has been made possible through the splendid cooperation of several K.A.A. members and officials.

Last week Lombardo, who played with Felix "Doc" Blanchard and Glenn Davis, spearheads of Army's presently tied unbeaten football team, agreed to appear as guest speaker at The Barn after being met by a few committee members of the K.A.A.

A few tickets are still to be had for Wednesday's banquet and they may be secured from any member of the K.A.A. or the special committee which follows:

Tommy Davis, Chris Rienzo, Palmer Brodhead, Bill Thomas, Joe Messinger, Joe Hoffman, Pat Senor, Sam Moss, Jack Dawkins, Al Flanagan and Jack Zaccaro.

Harvard-Eli Game Assumes Much of Its Former Glamor

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—A bit of the gridiron glory and glamor that once was theirs alone has been restored to the Big Three and Saturday's traditional clash between Yale and Harvard again will carry more significance than just an excuse for a week-end outing for the old boys.

For the Eli Yales and the Johnny Harvards come up to this climax contest with the Ivy League championship hanging on the outcome and with both schools boasting their best eleven already.

Harvard's stadium already has been sold out to its 57,000 capacity for this 63rd renewal of a rivalry that began "way back in 1875 and it will mark the second straight time in as many weeks that the S.R.O. sign will hang for a Big Three tilt. Yale's bowl was packed solid with 70,000 customers last Saturday to see the renaissance Bulldog maul Princeton 30-2.

Beaten only by Rutgers and boasting a 3-0 Ivy record, the Crimson nevertheless will enter the Bulldogs as heavy underdogs. The Bulldogs, defeated by Columbia and tied by Cornell, are in third place in the loop on a 3-1-1 slate. Cornell is second with three wins, no losses and a tie.

Can Clinch Titles

Harvard can clinch the Ivy and Big Three titles outright by whipping Yale while the Elis will have to await the result of the Cornell-Pennsylvania match on Thanksgiving Day to know how they stand even if they should win Saturday.

A triumph for Yale would give the Blue a 4-1-1 record and a .750 percentage on the circuit's method of figuring a tie half a victory and half a defeat. If Penn, with a current 2-1 performance, should beat Cornell, and Yale should whip Harvard, Yale, Harvard and Penn all would wind up with .750.

Even if Yale should win Cornell could upset the apparent by dumping Penn and thereby win the crown on a 4-0-1 slate.

Columbia winds up its campaign in a non-conference contest with Syracuse at Baker Field.

Other games on the eastern program include Alabama at Boston College; Penn State at Pittsburgh; Bucknell at Rutgers; Holy Cross at Temple; Georgetown at New York U. and Lehigh at Lafayette.

Seahawks Look Upward

Miami, Fla., Nov. 19 (AP)—The Miami Seahawks today had visions of climbing out of the All America Football Conference cellar after turning back the Buffalo Bills in the Orange Bowl stadium last night, 21-17. The Seahawks, with four more games to play, and all of them at home, buckled down to hard work in preparation for Monday night's meeting with the Los Angeles Rams.

After that comes the Cleveland Browns, New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers on successive Mondays.

Leo Will Act, or Boss Will, Latest Report

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—If Leo Durocher is not ready to renew his managerial contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers by next Monday, Branch Rickey, club president, says he is going to appoint someone else.

Durocher, who told newspapermen at the conclusion of the National League pennant playoff with St. Louis last month that he would "stay in Brooklyn until the day I die," is now on the west coast. He last saw Rickey October 31, in Columbus, O.

"I want him back here for a talk before I meet with newspapermen next week," Rickey said yesterday. "There's a lot to talk about and a lot of things to be explained. This thing has got to be settled. I don't want to be put in the embarrassing position of answering any questions until it is."

"But I'll say one thing, however," he added. "I'm getting fed up. Somebody's going to be named manager of the Dodgers Monday. It may be Durocher, and it might be someone else."

Army Takes First Place in Football Poll; N.D. Second

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—It was still Army in a photo finish over Notre Dame today for the No. 1 spot among the nation's football outfits—and the honeymoon is definitely over for Pennsylvania and Texas.

Balloting in the Associated Press' weekly poll, the sports writers of the country left the careening Cadets from West Point at the head of the parade by the slim margin of 50 points over the Irish, with the unbeaten-until pair of Georgia and University of California at Los Angeles holding third and fourth respectively.

But the 34-7 pounding Penn absorbed from Army last Saturday, and Texas' second upset setback of the season—this one by Texas Christian—dropped the Quakers and the Longhorns completely out of the select top-ten set, with Louisiana State and Southern California moving up to replace them.

Altogether, 110 sports writers from coast to coast and one from Honolulu voted for their leading ten selections after last Saturday's scrambling. Of these, 58 put Army on top all alone, compared to 34 a week ago, and 16 voted the Irish in front. Twenty-three others called it a tie, voting for a two-seater throne as a result of the scoreless deadlock the two outfits unfolded the previous week and the 27-0 decision the Irish were taking over Northwestern while the Cadets were clouting the Quakers last Saturday.

The other 13 first-place ballots were split between Georgia and U.C.L.A., the Bulldogs collecting eight, compared to their 12 of last week, and the Uclans getting five—two less than in the previous poll.

On a basis of ten points for a first place vote, nine for a second, eight for a third, and so forth, Army rolled up 1,053 points, just 50 more than the 1,003 for Notre Dame, with Georgia collecting 835 and U.C.L.A. 760.

Longest jump of the week was made by Illinois, which leaped from ninth to fifth place, with 527 points, as a result of the 16-7 victory over Ohio State which put the Illini out in front in the Big Nine Conference chase.

Mixed League

The Slover-Jansen-Schline combine moved back into first place in the Mixed League standings Sunday night with the help of the United Cleaners. While the S.J.S. club was winning three games from The Chalet, the United Cleaners were taking three straight from Kaye Sportswear which pushed the latter club into third place, three games behind the leaders.

Percy Slover led the S.J.S. keepers with a hefty 620 triple Sunday on a string of 188, 226 and 208. Art Jansen followed with 507. Johnny "Red" Sang's 331 series topped the losers.

Marge Jansen Biffs 245

Although Marge Jansen recorded a new high single for the women Sunday with her final game of 245, Kaye Sportswear dropped three important decisions to the United Cleaners. Marge ripped off a string of 176, 200 and 245 for a 621 triple. Her 245 solo tops the former mark of 244 held by Rose Schatzel.

Johnny Ferraro, continuing his great bowling from the Hudson Valley League, spearheaded the winners with another brilliant string of 207, 224 and 223 for 654. Ferraro's 654 also broke George Castor's former high triple for men of 653. Dick Howard had a 567 for the Cleaners. Johnny Schatzel's 548 and Rose Schatzel's 514 followed Mrs. Jansen's high mark.

With Evelyn Moore taking over for Grace Sabo in the leadoff spot for Wilber Club, the coalmen took two from Williams Lake. Harry Wilber's 222 and 558 sparked the winners while Bud Evans slammed out 200 and 544 for Williams Lake. Evelyn Moore shot a string of 152, 156 and 185. Evelyn Francis bowled a 207 single for Wilbers.

Bob Myers led the Colonial Cleaners to a pair of wins over Leventhals. Myers posted 222, 224 and 156 for 598. Chris Backman and Davis Wolf each rolled 503 for Leventhals who took over second place despite losing two games.

Fire Causes Loss As Greenhouses

Burgin Boiler Room Blaze Spreads Into Greenhouse 8

An early morning fire today that started in the flooring above the boiler room at the Valentini greenhouse, today was made the first business for the House Banking Committee in January.

Rep. Wolcott, Michigan Republican, who succeeds Rep. Spence (D-KY) as committee chairman, told newsmen that quick inquiry will be aimed at uncovering the "basic faults" of the program with the view to speedy passage of remedial legislation.

Describing the present program as "outstandingly bad," Wolcott said "there is little time to lose. The investigation must be the first order of business for the committee."

The Veterans' Housing Program, passed by Congress last spring under urging of President Truman, was designed to provide almost 3,000,000 houses for veterans in two years. It includes priorities on materials for veterans and $400,000,000 in subsidies to increase the production of scarce building materials.

There have been so many rumors about the housing program that they are crying for an investigation," Wolcott said.

The fire department responded to a telephone call at 1:28 o'clock this morning, and it was shortly after 5 o'clock when the firemen returned to their quarters.

Dense smoke was thrown off by the flames and the firemen were forced to wear gas masks in combating the fire, and entering the glass enclosed houses to open the ventilators and windows to allow the smoke to escape.

Two streams of water were played on the fire, which, when the firemen arrived, was breaking out of the top and sides of the tall brick chimney, which is located between the office building and the boiler house.

The fire spread from the boiler room to the hot house known as No. 8, in which chrysanthemums were being grown, and the smoke from the fire also spread to the other greenhouses.

At the time of the fire freezing temperatures prevailed.

Banking Committee To Study Housing

Washington, Nov. 19 (AP)—A Congressional investigation of the Veterans' Housing Program, to determine whether government controls impede rather than spur new building, today was made the first business for the House Banking Committee in January.

Funds Are Sought For Holiday Work In Institutions

Christmas will be made much happier to approximately 150 children in foster homes and institutions of the county this season again through the efforts of the Children's Committee of the Ulster County Committee of the State Charities Aid of which Mrs. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz is chairman.

This committee each year solicits from among interested residents of the county funds to provide some measure of Christmas cheer for those children who are in foster homes or institutions.

In the past letters have been sent to a number of residents who are interested in this work. From the funds contributed these children have been provided with a small measure of happiness at the Christmas season, a happiness which they would not otherwise have if it were not for the support of those interested in the work.

Again this year the fund is being solicited. Each person is asked to contribute the sum of $1 and at Christmas time each child in a foster home or institution is given $1 for his or her very own to purchase some article or gift. The fund is disbursed through the office of the State Charities Aid to those unfortunate children who most need it. In the past it has been possible to give to each boy or girl in a foster home or institution in the county.

This year the usual letter has been sent out to many public spirited people who are interested in the young folks, however, there is need for additional money to give further assistance to these foster home children or children in institutions.

Mrs. DeWitt, chairman of the Children's Committee of the Ulster County Committee of the State Charities Aid, has issued an appeal to citizens of the county to make such contributions to the fund as they may be able to. If not used for the Christmas cheer of the young folks, it may be used throughout the year for numerous needs of the children which cannot be met from the public money funds.

Contributions should be sent to Mrs. Virgil DeWitt, New Paltz, and interest in the cause of the children will be especially appreciated now at the time of the annual drive, or even later in the season for contributions for toys or clothing or some other gift which may make some boy or girl extremely happy.

Landladies Parade Against Rent Control

Washington, Nov. 19 (AP)—Seven landladies from Detroit brought the fight against rent controls to the O.P.A. building today waving placards proclaiming "help out rent control" and "America wants freedom, not Communism."

After marching an hour in front of the O.P.A. building, the pickets headed for the offices of the National Housing Agency, and later planned to march in front of the White House.

Mrs. Catherine Victor of Detroit said the group was composed of members of the Federated Property Owners of America Inc., which she described as a newly formed owners organization.

"We want our controls removed," said Mrs. Victor, who said she and the other women own small rental units, including light houses, keeping rooms in Detroit. She told reporters that "if rent controls were lifted, there would be enough vacancies in Detroit to take care of everybody. Now people are closing up their places and selling their houses."

Mrs. Victor said the other members of the group declined to allow use of their names, saying "they are afraid that the C.I.O. and the Communists will get them."

Support of Fund Asked

Philadelphia, Nov. 19 (AP)—A group of prominent Philadelphians headed by Owen J. Roberts, former associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, today urged Secretary of State Byrnes to support the proposed $400,000,000 emergency fund to provide food in 1947 for Europe's war-devastated countries.

In a telegram to Byrnes, the group said "no agency will exist after the termination of U.N.R.R.A. after December 31 to meet the basic food needs" unless the emergency fund, proposed by Fiorello H. LaGuardia, U.N.R.R.A. director, "is adopted by the United Nations."

Paste From Human Hair

London, Nov. 19 (AP)—Author Fenner Brockway reported today Germans in a Hamburg hospital were being fed a paste made from human hair. In his "German Diary," published today, Brockway said he had sampled the preparation, spread on toast, and that it tasted "not unlike fish paste." "The results have proven so satisfactory," he said the hospital head told him, "that we are now making arrangements to collect hair from all the barbers in Hamburg."

New Ceiling Is Clamped On Federal Departments

Washington, Nov. 19—A new ceiling of no more than 2,146,742 employees after New Year's Day—which is 144,833 fewer than they're allowed now—was clamped today on federal executive departments and agencies.

Budget Director James E. Webb set it for three months beginning January 1, which will see the opening of a Congress controlled by Republicans who are clamoring for sharper cuts.

Webb's announcement of the 144,833 cutback in personnel allowances was tempered by assurance that involuntary dismissals "are not likely to be as drastic" as the figure indicates.

The reason, officials explained, is that the agencies already are operating well under the current ceiling of 2,291,575 employees. Hence they won't have to fire a full 144,833 to get under the January 1 ceiling. Voluntary resignations also will help meet the reduction requirement.

The discharges will probably fall heaviest, officials said, on the "white collar" group who make up about a fourth of the government's total employees.

Ellenville Man Rests Comfortably; Treated for Poison

Carl Leyton, 45, of Canal street, Ellenville, is resting comfortably at the Kingston hospital following emergency treatment for poisoning last night at Ellenville.

Mr. Leyton, who is married and the father of three children, was taken to the Kingston hospital by Pulling's ambulance of Ellenville after he had been treated at Veterans Memorial hospital. The reason—there was not a single bed available in the Ellenville hospital.

The Ellenville police department received a call for help from the family of Mr. Leyton about 8:30 last night, the police being informed that Leyton had swallowed some kind of poison and was desperately ill.

Officers Abner Rand and Robert Mance together with Dr. O. M. Roberts answered the call. They found Leyton in serious condition and he was taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital where he was given emergency treatment. The victim's stomach was washed out and he was given a stimulant.

As there were no accommodations at the hospital, every bed being occupied, Mr. Leyton was taken to the Kingston hospital. The trip was made without incident and Mr. Leyton recovered quickly overnight.

Leyton is a teamster in Ellenville. He lives with his wife and three daughters. He did not say what he had taken which made him so ill.

Sentence Is Commuted

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—President Truman has commuted to 10 years imprisonment for desertion the death sentence imposed on Pvt. Francis R. Wallrath, 21-year-old combat veteran, says the soldier's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wallrath of Long Island City. Mrs. Wallrath said her attorneys had been advised by the War Department that the provision for her son's dishonorable discharge was stricken from the conviction. The youth was sentenced to death by a general court martial in August for deserting twice at Luzon and escaping at Luzon and later at Hokkaido, Japan.

The accident happened around 9:30 o'clock, according to the police report.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—An early selective recovery attempt failed to impress buyers in today's stock market and losses of fractions to more than 2 points ultimately were spread over most departments.

From the start dealings remained relatively sluggish. Leading rail and industrial issues bore the brunt of further meager offerings. New signs of revival were in evidence near the fourth hour.

Pessimism over labor questions, particularly the coal mine crisis, received the principal blame for bearish operations. Tax adjustments again proved a restraint. Many customers stood aside to await business developments in the light of rising goods prices. Timid bidding here and there was credited to the idea the list may have been oversold.

American Telephone extended its retreat to another new 1946 low. In the declining section were Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, Phelps Dodge, American Can, Dow Chemical, du Pont and International Harvester.

Commodities were hesitant and bonds were narrow.

Hopes Are Ferry May Resume Soon

Workmen were busy this morning and during the early hours of the afternoon installing the cylinder of the ferry George Clinton. The cylinder cracked, forcing the ferry to cease operations Sunday and Monday. The crack has been welded at the Ashley plant on Henry street.

As soon as the cylinder is installed it will be given a tryout, and if found to work satisfactorily ferry service between Kingston and Rhinecliff was expected to be resumed late this afternoon.

Committee Asks C.I.O. Stand for Substantial Boosts

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 19 (AP)—The C.I.O. convention was asked today by its resolutions committee to go on record for "substantial" wage increases.

A proposed wage resolution declares "there is no immediate prospect that runaway prices will be checked."

A proposed statement on labor laws asserts "we will not permit the reactionary open-shop employers of America and their legislative spokesmen to substitute for democratic labor relations laws, the law of the jungle."

With much of their fireworks already exploded, the convention received 43 resolutions from the committee and began the tedious task of reading and passing them.

girl was ever ruined by a book." Arriving one morning at city hall with an aide, Walker saw a long line of persons waiting to see him. Turning to his aide, he asked: "What did they do—close up the Aquarium?"

A trait long associated with Walker was his habit of arriving late for appointments. "I refuse to live by the clock," he said frequently.

He was reported to have kept President Coolidge waiting 40 minutes on a visit to Washington in 1929.

Even his marriage to Janet Allen in 1912 was held up, but this time it was not Walker's fault. His best man, a fire buff, had gone off to visit a blaze, and did not return for an hour.

Born in Greenwich Village

The man who later was to be hailed as the typical New Yorker and to become one of the most widely known men in the world, was born in the Greenwich Village section of the city, the son of an Irish immigrant father with a banking for politics.

In 1909 the younger Walker was named to replace his father in the State Assembly, where he became the protégé of another Assemblyman Alfred E. Smith.

During 15 years in the state Legislature Walker sponsored considerable legislation of a liberal character, including bills providing for Sunday baseball and motion pictures. He fathered the Walker Boxing Law, which legalized boxing in the state, taking it away from the domain of the private clubs. He also sponsored a law requiring the Ku Klux Klan to register its membership with the secretary of state.

After a career as lawyer and state assemblyman and senator, Walker defeated Mayor John F. (Red Mike) Hyman for the Democratic mayoralty nomination in 1925 and was swept into office by a 429,123 margin over Frank D. Waterman, Republican nominee. In 1927, through, however, he wanted to go to work, Walker left the first morning he entered City Hall as mayor on January 1, 1926.

He was reelected in 1929, defeating Fiorello H. LaGuardia, but cut short his tenure during the Seabury investigation, which accused him of malpractice in office and demanded his removal.

Pleaded for Tom Mooney

In 1933 he ran against popular opinion by appearing before the governor of California to plead, publicly, for the release from prison of Tom Mooney, then serving a life sentence for his alleged part in the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing.

Walker went on trial for his political life before the then Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in August, 1932, and two weeks later resigned from office. He spent the next few years in Europe.

Samuel Seabury, who conducted the probe, later claimed his inquiries showed Walker's regime was "characterized by inefficiency, waste and corruption." But Walker's friends maintained he accomplished more in the way of public improvement for the city than any preceding chief executive.

One of his favorite pastimes was knocking out tunes on a piano. One number he composed in his youth "Will You Love Me in December As You Do in May," was popular for many years.

The wedding to Miss Allen ended in divorce in 1933, and Walker married actress Betty Compton at Cannes, France. His second marriage also ended in divorce seven years later. Miss Compton died in 1944.

In 1940, Mayor LaGuardia appointed Walker impartial chairman of the city's clock industry at $20,000 a year. He quit this position to become head of Majestic Records, Inc., on February 13, 1945.

Sheean Discusses
Divergent Views
Regarding Russia

Correspondent, Author
Discusses Conditions
Which Influence
National Setups

The opposition, or debate, between representatives of the United States and the Soviet Union in the United Nations Assembly and some motives back of the divergent stands being taken, comprised largely the subject of an interesting talk given at the high school auditorium Monday night by Vincent Sheean, prominent foreign correspondent and author.

Mr. Sheean spoke under the auspices of the Kingston College Women's Club. Miss Irene Kinkade presided at the largely attended gathering and introduced Mr. Sheean.

Mr. Sheean opened his talk with some discussion of the statement that social conditions create the kind of people comprising a nation.

Thus the English, an island people, with not too good a climate and a desire to go overseas, "went to sea as naturally as they breathe," and the "miracle of Dunkirk," was performed as somewhat of an act of second nature.

The United States, occupying its unique position, with its isolation, wealth and power, was found to have a society conditioned and produced by machines, with its young men growing up in a machine age. It was technological superiority that won the war for the United States, said the speaker, adding, "that technological supremacy may be temporary."

Ideology, it was declared, gives Russia its appeal. "We do not have that appeal; we can benefit the world through production," said Mr. Sheean. Russia was seen as claiming, after 25 years of endeavor, that "the future will produce results."

As to the present state of affairs between the two countries, Russia and the United States, it was observed that physical oppositions have not yet occurred, although incidents were possible at anytime in some parts of the world.

Hitler was quoted as having said that the Americans and Russians might have to fight each other; also German officers, toward the close of the war, when further conflict seemed useless, were declared to have taken the position that they were fighting because they believed the Americans and Russians would fight—in which event the Germans would join the Americans.

Compelling Motive
A disagreement on the form of the actual structure of human society was seen as a compelling motive behind the failure of Russia and the United States to reach agreement. The outcome of the long drawn out negotiations was dependent upon the way they were conducted, said Mr. Sheean.

We can't look back over the past year or so with any great satisfaction, the speaker continued, as he found that relations between the two countries had steadily deteriorated. "There is little we can do about the minds of Russia, we must leave that to fate—but within our own country we can do something," he added.

This country's conduct of foreign affairs was found to have been unfortunate, back to the time of the first atomic bomb demonstration and President Truman's speech. The expression that the United States had this tremendous force, that we should keep it to ourselves, that the United States and Great Britain had showed their fitness to lead democracy—was said to have had a terrible effect in Russia. Only the other day, said the speaker, reference was made to "atomic blackmail."

That was the first thing we did, said Mr. Sheean. The second mistake was seen to be the calling of a peace conference without proper preparation. Right now, after ten months of deliberations, we are trying to create four or five peace treaties on the basis of decisions made at Paris, he said.

One great source of difficulty was claimed to be the fact, as stated, that Secretary of State Byrnes "has not had a consistent foreign policy."

Should Clarify Stand

"It is clear to me," said Mr. Sheean, "that we ought to say what we mean and what we want." Fluctuations in Mr. Byrnes' decisions were found to be bad and some acts were classed as bad diplomacy.

Emphasis was laid on this country's contention, regarding the Balkans, particularly as to their voting methods. "We never did care about how they voted in the Balkans," declared the speaker, who felt that there were other pending questions of much greater importance—Germany, Korea, the Dardanelles, for instance. We stressed the Danube river question, he said—held ships that had been seized, then suddenly, last week, decided to give them up. Why wait a year to take action, was asked.

No large foreign policy has been defined by Mr. Byrnes said Mr. Sheean, who expressed the hope that in the time given us to make an announcement a policy that really will represent the true greatness of the American people.

On the other hand, Russia was found to be represented by a man "who does not understand us, who misinterprets happenings and events in this country." Thus Henry Wallace's speech was viewed as heralding a revolt in this country and the impending coal strike would be taken as sign of a general uprising—while the people here view them as just incidents.

In speaking of the relatively unimportant subjects that are being brought forward in opposition to Russia—the attitude was found to be "silly" and more or less inconsequential, as opposed to a firm, stated policy in essential matters—Mr. Sheean referred to the article in that day's Herald Tribune by Joseph and Stewart Alsop.

The article gave some account of Soviet Union attempts to push forward in Iran and the possibility that they might lead to civil war, unless the Western powers cause the Soviet's to recoil, or Iran becomes a Soviet puppet state.

There is no time in 100 years that this has not been true, it was declared, referring to Russia's attempts to push forward in Persia.

Of particular interest, however, was Mr. Sheean's statement that the Alsop brothers write for Secretary of State Byrnes and that their articles in the Herald Tribune are based on inside information. He recommended that his hearers read these articles if they want to get the latest on State Department news, ideas and moves.

Question Period Held
At the close of his talk, Mr. Sheean answered numerous questions from the floor. As to "why the antagonism toward Russia," he said that some of it arose from ideals held here—by Foster Dulles, for instance. Back of it was seen to be the idea that honor is enjoyed by people of the United States should be introduced into other countries.

Questioned as to the importance of making a "right" decision in matters of foreign policy, Mr. Sheean said that the important thing to do at this time was to "make a decision."

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The battle in the British House of Commons between left-wing Socialists and the Labor (Socialist) government over foreign policy developed highly interesting though, in some respects, dangerous conclusions.

The debate resolved about the rebel motion that the government's foreign policy steer a middle course between the United States and Russia. This was based on the premise that the Soviet Union and the United States were headed for war, and that Britain was bound to become involved in it by heaving to the American line.

R. H. S. Crossman, leader of the revolt, charged that the formation of "a complete and exclusive Anglo-American tie-up—as urged by Winston Churchill in this Fulton, Missouri, speech early this year—had been followed by a steady split of the world into American and Russian blocs, he added.

"Go to Paris or any other capital and you will find there is no doubt whatsoever that in the course of the last 18 months Great Britain has lined up on the American side in this struggle."

Well, now, the "complete" (though not exclusive) "Anglo-American tie-up" was made in the first world conflict, and it has continued ever since. Also we must remember that the end of the recent war found the Russian bloc already firmly established. It was not a post-war development and it's safe to say it would have materialized irrespective of Anglo-American relations. It is true that the wholly different ideological viewpoints between the east and the west have resulted in a widening of the division. By the same token it is equally true that Britain couldn't lessen the danger of difficulties with Russia merely by steering clear of American policies.

Prime Minister Attlee in replying to the left-wingers said: "I think this motion is misconceived, is mistimed and based on a misconception of the facts. This government does not believe in the formation of groups or opposing groups of the east, west or center. We stand for the United Nations. We perhaps are more accustomed to compromise than some of these with whom we have to deal, but compromise is the basis of a peaceful civilization."

Answering the "rebel" demand that he repudiate Churchill's Fulton speech, Attlee gave this middle-of-the-road reply: "We are not seeking an exclusive Anglo-American alliance."

Whether the left-wingers were satisfied, the fact remains that the government's foreign policy received a unanimous vote of confidence.

Mr. Attlee will find plenty of people in America who agree with his dislike of blocs. Still he presumably wouldn't deny that, as world affairs now stand, blocs are necessary evils. Furthermore the present division of there must be one) is on logical lines—ideological and racial. It's natural for the Slavic states to cling together, and the same is true of much of the western group, especially the English speaking peoples. And, of course, totalitarian Communism and western democracy are as oil and water to each other.

Paradoxically enough, it is possible that the "bloc" system may work out all right in the end. To make the United Nations organization function properly there must be world unity. That unity will come by degrees. We have disunity now between two great blocs, but while that is disconcerting we mustn't overlook that there is a very considerable degree of unity within each of those blocs. The trick therefore is to solve the differences between the two blocs. And, as the stage magician says, it's a good trick if we do it, and it's still a good trick if we don't.
